Market size has been increased as a result of the ever-increasing number of color printing devices used in many different applications. One of the advantages of inkjet printers is that they do not require any other light source to perform color printing. However, a color inkjet printer produces more waste materials than a color laser printer. The waste materials in the inkjet printing may contain chemical pollutants such as ink additives and unused dyes. These inks and dyes are usually released into the surrounding environment and can cause environmental pollution, especially in the case of the printed paper. On the other hand, usage of a laser printer is not very popular at present. Laser printers can only produce monochromatic images and are

The idea of the screensaver has been born when you hear sound of musical instruments on a special holiday. Like a peacock and an angel, you float between the waves and the clouds. If you touch the surface of the clouds they turn into angels, if you touch the surface of the water it turns into waves. If you fly up the clouds for a short distance, you are led to the top of the screen. By touching it, you land on a beautiful island with a well, and in the middle of the forest there is a temple. Everything starts to smell with flowers, as if it were a fragrant Christmas tree. And at the end of the screensaver flying angel will give a gift: You will fly at the top of the screen and tap the ground twice. The Angel will give out a beautiful music and a long animation would be shown. At the end of the screensaver, your angel will show its wings and say: You are flying!
