When I was working with the Ipad (4 and 6), I would always use Real Blender. I will continue to use it. Once again, another great update. I have used it to change the system colours, my app's colours, the colours of the form's controls, the colours of any.png image I use as a background, have changed system buttons, have added to the controls the option to have a 'fill' (or outline or both) and the ability to place a label. The list just goes on. Again a great update from Jcon. I use it to make sure that the app I am building will work on every possible device from all platforms. Good news - Real Bl 1d6a3396d6

The first taste of the game was only a trailer, and it looked very good. This time it was closer to the promised of visuals for the game. Hexyz Productions promises to release an Alpha version of the game for all the platforms, and that they will make sure to release a demo, which is not the usual for the game. They also talked about the features of
